This course will focus on the development of Greek science from the Archaic to the Roman periods (700 BC—AD 300). Topics that will be examined in detail will include medicine and disease, biology, physics, mathematics, and technology and invention. There will be a midterm, final, and final paper.